You Can Help Low-Income Adults Keep Their SNAP (Food Stamp) Benefits

SNAP benefits (formerly food stamps) allow low-income people to buy the food they need to stay healthy. Many SNAP recipients ages 18 to 49 are at risk of losing their SNAP benefits due to a SNAP rule that went into effect on January 1, 2016. The rule referred to as Able Bodied Adults Without Dependents (ABAWD) limits SNAP eligibility to three months.

With just a few minutes of your time, you can easily help. Many of those categorized as ABAWDs are not “able-bodied” due to a physical or mental condition that makes them unable to work at least 20 hours per week.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the definition of someone who is physically or mentally unfit for work under SNAP rules?

Being determined physically or mentally unfit for work is a broader exemption than being disabled. An individual is considered physically or mentally unfit for work if they have an illness, injury, or some other mental or physical limitation, whether temporary or permanent, that does not allow them to work 20 hours per week.

Some patients have impairments that prevent them from working at all. Or, some patients have impairments that allow them to work—but they may not be able to work full time, or even 20 hours per week. This standard of unfitness is much less strict than the Social Security standard and does not require a diagnosis or medical records.

How do I verify that my patient “is physically or mentally unfit for work” based on his or her condition?

Fill out the simple one-page Medical Statement Form on the back side of this flyer. Include the expected duration of the incapacity and your signature. A variety of healthcare professionals can sign this form including: a doctor, doctor assistant, representative of the doctor’s office, a nurse, nurse practitioner, licensed or certified psychologist or social worker.
